A woman enters a room to see a man wearing a metal suit and being tugged at by machines and he says, "This is not the worst thing you've caught me doing." A man wearing a metal suit tells machines trying to take the suit off to "be gentle, this is my first time." A man and a woman appear to be attracted to each other. ► A man uses a device that makes a high-pitched whistle to incapacitate a man (we see the man's veins on his face protrude through the skin and he goes limp). A man testing jet propulsion boots is flipped through the air and slams into a wall (we see him with a few abrasions on his face later). When a female Vanity Fair reporter asks Stark how he can sleep at night, Stark answers that he's "prepared to lose a few (hours of sleep) with you." He does exactly that in the film's most glaring sexual scene. ► A man in a metal suit flies through the air, is shadowed by two fighter jets, a rocket is fired at him, he blows up the rocket, clings to the belly of one plane, the plane spins trying to knock him off, he lets go, one plane crashes into him breaking its wing, the plane spins out of control, and the pilot ejects -- his parachute deploys just before it is too late. We welcome suggestions & criticisms -- and we accept compliments too. However, when he is thrown off after being discovered hiding on the underbelly of one of the fighters, he accidentally collides with the other and critically damages it, forcing the pilot to eject.
